CHILD IS FOUND NEAR CEMETERY

Little One Missing Since School Dismissed Yesterday Found Late
Last Night.

ENTIRE CITY WAS ALARMED

Anna Rosencrans Said a Man With Black Mustache Took Her to East Hill Cemetery.

The down-town district was thrown into a mild state of excitement last night, when the word was passed around that a child was missing from home. Little nine-year-old Anna Rosencrans of North Perkins street did not return home from school at the accustomed time and when an hour had passed and nothing had been learned of her, the mother started a search. No trace of the little one could be found anywhere. It seemed as if the earth had swallowed her. Her playmates did not see anything of her after she left the school and she could not be found at the homes of any of the family's friends. Six o'clock came and no word from the little girl. The mother was wild with grief and the father was hurrying first from one place to another in a fruitless search. Nothing causes a community to be stirred to action quicker than the report of a lost child. And coming as it did, when the Whittaker kidnapping case was fresh in the minds of all, it is little wonder that many people left off their regular occupations and quit their favorite loafing places to join in a search for the little one. Those who were not actively engaged in searching were talking about the affair and it caused no end of speculation. Some were of the opinion that the child had been drowned; others that it had strolled aimlessly away but some entertained the fear that the child had been kidnapped.

Seven o'clock found a broken-hearted mother wringing her hands and refusing to listen to the consolation of neighbors and friends who hastened to her side. The father kept moving all over the city and telephoning occasionally to reassure his wife that their daughter would be found.

"Please mister, can't you take me in. A great big man with a long black mustache caught me, took me away and left me out there in the cemetery."

It was little Anna Rosencrans who spoke and fear was written on every line of her pale face. She stood trembling before the door of Adam Herbert, who lives in the rear of East Hill cemetery. It was dark and nearly eight o'clock. Of all the out-of-way and desolate places in Rush county at night, this surely was one. It was enough to frighten a grown person. It is not difficult to understand why the child could not be found when she turned up in such a locale.

Mr. Herbert bade her come in. The nervous and almost hysterical child told a harrowing tale that set the blood tingling and cold in the veins of the members of the Herbert family, who listened with bated breath. Anna said the man approached her and induced her to go with him. He was kindly with her at first, but no sooner were they in the rear of the cemetery when he told her he intended to keep her and that she must go with him and not scream out, lest he might kill her. She gave a minute description of the kidnapper. When they waited for a while in the cemetery, and he asked her a number of questions, he told her to remain quiet while he would go to town and get some whisky that he had forgotten. Once she was alone she began to cry and to walk and run until she was fatigued when she reached the Herbert home.

Mr. Herbert, with all due haste, hitched up a rig and took the little one to this city to notify the police and return her to her parents. Herbert stopped at the Grand hotel, that a phone message could be sent to the mother of the girl and also that the police could be started in quest of "the big man with a black mustache." Seated in the rig, the girl recounted the story to a number who gathered about, telling word for word, the same tale she poured into the ears of the Herbert family. But she supplemented it with another chapter that exploded the entire story.

"When he left me standing alone, there by my self in the dark, a big bear came out and grabbed me. But I got away. Then I saw some lions and tigers, too."

Those who heard the last part of her story were complexed and dumb-founded. They knew then that the child had suffered from a strange hallucination, and in her vivid imagination, concocted the whole story. But the fact of her wandering to the cemetery and remaining there until a late hour remained unexplained.

When the true story developed it proved to be most interesting. The child has been selling chewing gum for prizes until she was forbidden to do so, by her parents. They did not want her bothering people on the street and calling on them at their homes. The child was determined on getting a bracelet—although she had two—and for that end, after school was dismissed yesterday evening she went to the home of the distributor of the chewing gum, for a supply. After she got it, she feared to take it home. It was growing late and she started to walk with no given point in view—just anywhere, only not home. It happened that some mention had been made yesterday in the Rosencrans home of Miss Alma Odear, a school teacher, who died last year, and who was held in the highest esteem by the family and two of the children, who attended school when she taught here. Often the Rosencrans have gone to the grave of the school teacher and put flowers there. It occurred to the child that she would go to the cemetery to that grave. Once she was there, she walked about in search of the grave, and nightfall coming sooner than she anticipated, she found herself lost. Fear overcame her and no doubt she experienced a most dreadful time and thought of spooks, robbers, bears, and what-not. The experience with the man she described was perhaps just as real to her as if it had occurred. It was found that the mother of the child had been reading romantic stories to her son, a boy of thirteen years, and in Alger's "Shifting For Himself," there was just such an instance recorded as the little girl told about, the man with the big black mustache, going for whiskey and leaving the child alone.

Both the father and mother were greatly joyed to have their daughter returned to them, safe and sound, even though she had joined the "Ananias" club temporarily.

TRYING TO BLOCK BIG IMPROVEMENT

Sixteen Objections Filed Against the Proposed Paving of Main Street.

WILL MAKE TEST OF THE LAW

A long brief, containing sixteen objections to the proposed paving of Main street was filed in the county commissioners court today and oral argument will follow tomorrow. The principal objection is that the law is said to be unconstitutional. Already there is another such case pending in the Supreme court, says some, while others contend that the constitutionality of the law has long been a settled matter.

ELOPE TO AVOID THEIR FRIENDS

Miss Hattie Bitner and Dora Abercrombie Went to Newport, Ky., and Were Married.

WAS NO PARENTAL OBJECTION

Watch Every Train for their Arrival.
Were Given Royal Reception
Last Night.

Miss Hattie Bitner, daughter of Mrs. Robert T. Newkirk, of North Main street, and Dora Abercrombie, son of Hugh Abercrombie, living a short distance north of this city, eloped to Newport, Kentucky, yesterday morning and returned last night about six o'clock man and wife. There was no parental objection or anything of that sort, but they just simply were afraid of their friends and wished to avoid them if possible. Their engagement goes back several years and their large circle of young friends have been lying in ambush ready to jump at any false move on their part, like a tiger about to spring on his prey. They have long been planning a means, whereby they could quietly slip away and be joined in matrimony, unknown to anyone, and the plan of going to Kentucky seemed to be the most feasible one, as there would be no marriage license issued here and no one would be any the wiser.

But their young dream was brought to a sudden end yesterday morning all unknown to them, when one of their young friends, who is one of the coterie, that had been watching the young couple to see that they did nothing on the quiet, saw them board the five o'clock C. H. & D. train yesterday morning. Then everything was all excitement and sentinels were placed at all of the depots to watch all who arrived.

The day passed without any new developments, but the young sleuths did not despair and patiently awaited at all the stations expecting their parties to arrive at any moment.

At last the expected happened. Jesse Wolung, who was stationed at the C. H. & D. depot, saw them get off the 5:55 train. He kept himself well hidden behind nearby buildings and like a true detective shadowed the young married couple to the home of the groom's father north of the city. Then the news was spread all over the city to the crowd, that was anxiously waiting. They assembled after supper and all went noisily to the Abercrombie home and burst in on the young married couple much to their dismay.

Their long dream of years had failed right when they thought they were successful. The newly wedded man was taken to the adjoining fields and there initiated into all of the secrets of married life. He was given the "bump bumps," made to ride the rail, and put through all sorts of stunts that are not new to the man who has been captured by his friends shortly after marriage. It is said that he resembled very much one of the members of the "Knights of the Road" society before they had finished with him.

L. S. HUNT CANNOT LIVE

Veteran Merchant Cannot Live But

KINDLY SPIRIT WASTED ABOVE

Mrs. John M. Buell Succumbed of Cancer of Stomach at Ten O'clock Last Night.

AFTER A LINGERING ILLNESS

Has Been in a Critical Condition For Several Weeks—Survived by Three Daughters.

Mrs. John M. Buell died at her home in East Sixth street last night at ten o'clock after a lingering illness of several months. The attending physicians pronounced cancer of the stomach as the cause of her death. Mrs. Buell had been in very poor health since last October and scarcely any hope had been entertained for her recovery for the last few weeks. Her numerous friends and relatives have been expecting the inevitable, but had been placing it as far in the distance as possible. She took to her bed just seven weeks ago and had been in a critical condition since that time.

Mrs. Buell was born in Venice, O., August 18, 1836, and would have been 73 years of age next August. She and her husband, who has also been ill for several weeks, would have celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary on September 21.

She was an ardent member of the First Presbyterian church and associated with all the good work carried on until recently, when she had been unable to do anything on account of ill health. She was also a member of the Ladies Aid Society of the church.

The deceased is survived by her husband, John M. Buell, who was formerly secretary of the Rushville Natural Gas company, and three daughters, Mrs. Lewis Sexton and Miss Lena Buell of this city, and Mrs. Edwin Humphreys of Raton, New Mexico. There are also two children dead.

Friends who wish to view the remains may call at the residence tomorrow morning between the hours of 9:30 and 11:30 o'clock. The funeral services will be conducted from the residence in East Sixth street tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock by Rev. J. L. Cowling of the First Presbyterian church. The remains will be buried in East Hill cemetery.

OLIVE R. MAUDLIN ASKS FOR DIVORCE

Claims That Husband Abandoned and Cruelly Treated Her at Various Times.

RESIDE IN ORANGE TOWNSHIP

Olive R. Maudlin today filed suit in the county clerk's office against her husband, William R. Maudlin, for a divorce. She alleges that her husband has during their married life at various times abandoned her and her children and left them without support. She also claims cruel and inhuman treatment at the hands of her husband, and asks that the name of her first husband be given back to her. They are residents of Orange township.

Miss Dove Meredith will entertain the "Watson Beauty Bunch" at her home in North Morgan street Saturday evening.

The last edition of the New York telephone book weighed 2000 tons.

SAD RITES PERFORMED

Over Grave of Mrs. John Winship
This Afternoon.

The last sad rites were performed over the grave of Mrs. John Winship this afternoon, who died of a complication of diseases at her home in West Fifth street Monday morning. The funeral services were conducted from the residence by Rev. R. W. Abberley and Dr. V. W. Tevis. The remains were buried in East Hill cemetery.

ROWDY BOYS THROW ROCKS ON VERANDA

At Home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob
Weber—Neighborhood at Fifth and Sexton Complain.

PROSECUTION MAY FOLLOW

A number of rowdy boys have been causing much trouble in the evenings to residents living in the vicinity of the corner of Fifth and Sexton streets. Last night a crowd gathered on the corner and threw rocks into the house through the open door at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weber. No damage was done except to frighten Mrs. Weber, who is very ill. The authorities know who the parties are and unless the trouble is stopped, prosecution will follow.

ORGANIZATION OF LOCAL MERCHANTS

Is the Object of a Move Launched
Here by an Expert in Handling
Such Affairs.

WILL HAVE DEAD BEAT LIST

W. C. Gilmore of the International Mercantile Agency of Hamilton, O., is here trying to interest the merchants in an organization for their mutual protection against bad accounts. In addition to keeping up a live, dead beat list the association has many other good features. Another object of the organization is to further a more friendly feeling among the business men and to interest them in a proposition to all work for the betterment of Rushville.

It has been stated on British authority that American immigrants into Canada are taking $50,000,000 worth of property into that country each year.

OUTLANDISH IS THE RIGHT NAME

Of all the Monstrosities, None Ever
Equaled the New Hat, the Kyth-gdjnyrvnfg.

NOW SEEN IN RUSHVILLE

Prodigious Sky Piece That Demands
Attention and Claims Space—
Try On's in the Back Yard.

The latest thing in Rushville is the Kythgdjnyrvnfg hat. It arrived Monday and can be seen in town at some of the millinery establishments on display and it is earnestly desired by the male population that they will continue to be on display, but not on the head of a woman. It is useless to go into detail describing this monstrosity but suffice it to say that an ordinary door looks a trifle too small to permit of its passable without first bending down the rims.

Two prospective Easter purchasers walked into a store in the afternoon and were lamenting over the fact that they could not find the style of a hat to suit them when this newest addition caught their eye and it was no wonder, for it is the largest thing ever designed for woman. Their conversation ran something like this: "Oh, look what we have here. Isn't it a dream?" "A perfect love of a hat." "Such a beautiful shape." "It's the only thing I've seen in Rushville that I have admired." "I believe I'll purchase it." etc.

This goes to show that the poor man who is compelled to labor with its convenience is not thought of, much less consulted as to how she looks in it.

The next thing that will have to be patented is an umbrella arranged so that it will cover this hat, the coveree and the unfortunate individual carrying it.

You know, they can't try them on in the millinery stores, they have to go out in the back yard.

BIG DAMAGE SUIT WAS COMPROMISED

Mary Morrow, Who Sued the City of Rushville, Settles Case Out of Court.

CASE WAS VENUED TO SHELBY

The Morrow damage suit which was brought against the city of Rushville and which was set for hearing in the Shelby circuit court on Monday has been compromised and the case dismissed, says the Shelbyville Republican.

Miss Morrow, plaintiff in the case, is a resident of Indianapolis. On August 18th, she was visiting the Owen L. Carr family at Rushville. She was out driving with two of the Carr children. A gang of men were repairing the water pipes on Arthur street and they stretched a rope across the street to prevent anyone from driving into the ditch. It was dark when Miss Morrow drove along and the horse walked into the rope, turning the buggy over. Miss Morrow was severely injured and she brought suit for $5000 against the city.

THIRD VICTIM IN TRAIL OF DEATH

Georgia Land Case Marked by Series of Murders.

PROMINENT ATTORNEY SLAIN

The Latest Victim in The Astonishing Series of Assassination Is Pope Hill, a Prominent Attorney of Macon, Who Was Slain in a Friend's Law Office at McRea While Preparing to File Additional Papers in the Dodge Case.

McRae, Ga., April 6.—That Pope Hill, a prominent attorney of Macon, is the third victim of an assassin in the now celebrated Dodge land case, is the belief of the authorities of this county. The coroner's jury, after a careful examination, declared that Hill was murdered by "parties unknown." Hill was found dead in the office of a local attorney, a bullet in his brain and a revolver, with one chamber discharged, grasped in his right hand. The condition of the office indicated a desperate struggle. The stove had been turned over, the coal scuttle was crushed, and the furniture was broken. On the floor lay an unfinished court motion in the Dodge case, drawn by the dead lawyer, which he came here to file.

Hill arrived here and went to a friend's law office to work on the case. A little while later he went to the home of the proprietor of a hardware store and said he had received some threatening letters and wanted a revolver. The hardware man sold Hill the revolver which was found clasped in his hand. Hill returned to the office and was not again seen alive.

The bullet had pierced his right eye and entered the brain. From blood stains on the wall, he must have been shot while standing up. The first idea of suicide seemed contradicted by the fact that there were no powder burns on his face and that there was every indication of a desperate struggle in the office, which apparently began while Hill was in the middle of the work of preparing his motion for the court today.

When his body was searched a note addressed to him at Macon was found. It was written in a childish hand, and said:

"Pope Hill:—The Next time you interfere with our settlement, you will be broke."

Instead of a signature, there was a rudely drawn skull and crossbones. The authorities believe that Hill received other threats after he arrived here, which impelled him to buy the revolver. He was interested in the case, and had spent much time in preparation.

The Trail of Death.

The trail of deaths and injuries in the Dodge land suit began in 1891. In that year, John C. Forsythe, who represented the N. W. Dodge estate, was assassinated. After a six-weeks' trial, five men were sent to prison for life for the crime. Soon after this, Lucius Williams, one of the claimants' attorneys was killed, and for weeks the entire county was in a state of great excitement. Since then, there have been numerous encounters growing out of the case, in which the participants received severe gunshot or stab wounds.

The Dodge lands cover some 400,000 acres in Pulaski, Dodge, Telfair and Lawrence counties. The title rested on some ancient land grants, and since 1882, there has been continuous litigation over their ownership. Many squatters settled on different parts, and there was trouble every time an eviction was attempted. The Dodge heirs were kept busy protecting their title and dispossessing squatters.

Pope Hill had been retained to represent a new client whose name has not been made known, and when he arrived here he carried certain documents and deeds, which he proposed to offer to the court to sustain his client's claim. During the past few years he has made a special study of this case, and has been over almost every acre of the land. The case seemed nearly settled, recently, and then the new claimant appeared.

Hill was forty years old, was a member of the law firm of Harris & Harris, and leaves a wife and one child. His friends and business associates are employing detectives.

Entries to Close April 20.

Cincinnati, O., April 6.—Entries for the Latonia Jockey Club stakes will close on April 20, according to an announcement made by the management. The Latonia Derby, the principal event on the card will be worth about $2,500 to the winner and the stakes in this and other events of the meeting are practically the same as last year.

To Name New Commandant.

Lafayette, Ind., April 6.—The board of trustees of the Lafayette Soldiers' Home met in this city today to name a successor to Col. R. M. Smock, the present commandant. Among the candidates are W. S. Haggard and Job S. Simms, of this city, and Col. Sears, of Indianapolis, formerly adjutant of the home.

IT ASTONISHED HIM

Roosevelt Was Not Looking For Such a Send-off at Naples.

Naples, April 6.—Ex-President Roosevelt spent several hours in Naples, and during that time was given many evidences of his personal popularity with the Italian people and of the admiration which they have for his distinguished services to his country. Great crowds waited for his appearance on the streets, and when he rode along in an automobile he was greeted with enthusiasm that astonished him. He met various official delegations at the Hotel Excelsior, scores of prominent Americans and the representatives of other countries and to them all he expressed his warmest thanks for the welcome which he had received. He visited the duke and duchess of Aosta at Capodimonte. About 10 o'clock in the evening, Mr. Roosevelt went aboard the Admiral, which will convey him to Mombasa and which sailed at midnight.

NICARAGUA SEEKS EARLY SETTLEMENT

Zelaya Is Trying to Patch Things Up.

Washington, April 6.—The gratifying information has been conveyed to Secretary Knox that the Nicaraguan government would make an early effort to settle either by compromise or by arbitration the claim for damages of the G. D. Emery company, whose concession for cutting mahogany was cancelled about two years and a half ago for an alleged violation of the terms of the concession.

Through Mr. Espinoza, the Nicaraguan minister, the secretary was told that a special commissioner would leave the Central American country immediately for this city, carrying full instructions for the minister, which would empower him to reach a settlement whereby the whole controversy would be adjusted. If a compromise is not reached the minister will sign a protocol submitting the case to arbitration.

Diplomacy has well nigh exhausted itself in the efforts to reach a settlement of this case and the temper of the state department was such that longer delay was becoming intolerable. There is a disposition in some unofficial circles to question the sincerity of President Zelaya's latest move, the argument being made that it merely constitutes a play for time and more delay in the final settlement of the issues involved. At the state department, however, satisfaction is expressed over the outcome and the hope for a prompt settlement is expected.

THE PEOPLE AROSE

Blind Tiger In a Kentucky Town Creates a Local Storm.

Mayfield, Ky., April 6.—A posse of 100 citizens, headed by county officials and all the ministers of the city, marched on an alleged blind tiger in the east edge of the town. After breaking down the doors they confiscated twelve gallons of whisky, and after a prayer by one of the ministers in the party, marched through the streets and visited a second place.

The crusade follows the killing of Jesse Cooley, a prominent clay mine owner, and the suicide of a prominent man while drunk.

Big Coal Tow Endangered.

Evansville, Ind., April 6.—The tow-boat Boaz, with thirty barges of coal, was blown aground on the flats below the city and is in great danger. Capt. Gould was warned not to leave his moorings here and attempt to proceed south, but disregarded the advice. He was barely around the bend when the gale struck his fleet and drove the heavy coal-laden barges along like chips. It appears the fleet will have to be cut to pieces if it is saved. Waves are rolling over the barges.

Deadly Garage Fire.

Kankakee, Ill., April 6.—Wallace Gagnier, twenty-three years old, was burned to death, and Ed Pombert, twenty years old, was seriously injured in a fire which destroyed Fleming & Brown's garage, together with seven automobiles. The fire is supposed to have started from a match thrown on the floor. Explosions quickly followed. Pombert was burned while trying to rescue his companion who had crawled to a window.

Confessed "Firebug" Sentenced.

Crawfordsville, Ind., April 6.—John Shehan, confessed "firebug," pleaded guilty before Judge West, of the Montgomery circuit court to the charge of arson and was sentenced to serve from two to twenty-one years in the Reformatory at Jeffersonville. He was also fined $100 and disfranchised for ten years. Shehan is the young man, who, during the last three months, set fire to more than a dozen barns.

Cracksmen Loot Dentists' Safe.

Columbus, O., April 6.—Discovery has been made that two safes in the office of H. G. Fitzgerald and company, dentists in the Wesley block, had been picked by a professional and robbed of gold filling material said to be worth $2,500 and $400 in cash. The knob had been broken off of a third safe.

MICHIGAN ELECTIONS ATTRACT ATTENTION

The Saloon Question Was the Absorbing Issue.

Detroit, Mich., April 6.—With practically all of the interest in Monday's election centered in the twenty-seven counties of the state where the abolition of the liquor traffic was balloted upon, the Republican state ticket received a majority not upwards of 75,000.

Returns from the counties which voted on the liquor question placed Emmet, Eaton and Sanilac in the "dry" column, while in Huron and Ottawa the "wets" were victorious. The defeat of prohibition in Ottawa by a heavy majority was considered a decisive "wet" victory as the anti-saloon league had made a strenuous campaign in that county.

Of the twenty-seven counties which voted on the question of abolishing the sale or manufacture of liquor in their borders, twenty have gone "dry" and seven have gone "wet."

Before this election eleven of the eighty-three counties of the state were "dry."

The Republican state ticket was as follows: Justices of the supreme court, Charles R. Blair, Jackson, and John W. Stone, Marquette; Regents of the University of Michigan, William L. Clements, Bay City, and George P. Codd, Detroit; member of the state board of education, William G. McCone, of Albion; members of the state board of agriculture, William H. Wallace, Saginaw; I. R. Waterbury, Highland; R. J. Doherty, Clare; R. D. Graham, Grand Rapids; and W. L. Carpenter, Detroit.

Mayors and city officials were elected in a number of the smaller cities of the state. In Detroit, where there was no mayoralty election, interest in the election of school inspectors was intense. Women's votes played a large part in the selection of the members of the school board.

CY YOUNG THE CHAMPION.

Griffith Claims That Veteran Is Greatest Twirler in Baseball.

"You can talk about your Clarksons, your Rusies, your Radbourns and your Mathewsons," says Manager Clarke Griffith of the Cincinnati Nationals, "but when it comes down to real figures, the greatest pitcher that ever lived is Cy Young, who was turned over to Cleveland recently by the Boston club."

"Just think of it, that old boy will be forty-two years of age on March 29, has been pitching in fast company for nineteen years, and is just as clever in fooling batsmen now as ever he was."

"It has been whispered around that the Cleveland club made a foolish trade in giving Pitchers Chech and Ryan and a bonus of $10,000 for Young. Don't believe it. Why, Young will draw that $10,000 the first three games he pitches for the Naps and he'll keep on winning, too, with that team behind him."

"Young's a wonder. Any man that can give up 500 games in fast society is a marvel. And you can bet that the old boy has a lot of good baseball in his makeup yet. Watch him."

BITTER FIGHT IN CASS TODAY

Culmination of Campaign That Has Rent County.

THE PEOPLE ALL WORKED UP

Families Have Been Divided; Churches Split in Two and the Business Community Unsettled By Campaign Which Has Culminated in Today's Local Option Election in Cass County.—Blackford County Also Stirred Up.

Logansport, Ind., April 6.—Voters were awakened this morning at 5 o'clock by the ringing of church bells, which are being rung at hourly intervals today as a call to vote the saloons out.

However, opposition to this has developed in some of the churches. Members who do not believe in this temporary movement are protesting and declare that they will withdraw from the church. They say ministers should not permit the church to be dragged into politics.

"To be or not to be; that is the question."

And Logansport and Cass county are deciding it today. A county option election is being held to determine whether the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be prohibited in Cass county. No political campaign was ever held in the history of the county which has been more exciting, more heated and more bitterly contested than this. Church congregations have been severed. Cass county has been stirred from border to border, business has been neglected and conditions generally are in a chaotic state. Each side is claiming a victory.

Conditions here are different from those in any county which has yet voted, and the "wets" have an advantage which they have not had elsewhere. Logansport holds the balance of power in this election, while in all other counties that have held option elections, the farmers held it. The voters of the city of Logansport outnumber those of the out-townships by 981, and this is a factor which causes the "wets" to be more hopeful of victory than they otherwise would be.

The "wets" not only have the advantage of Logansport holding the balance of power in this election, but there are two out-townships which both sides concede, will either go "wet" or the vote will be almost evenly divided. Only seven out-townships remain from which the "drys" must get their majority, as it is generally believed they will not carry any of the city wards. Some of the enthusiastic temperance people, however, say they will carry the First and Fourth wards, but the more conservative ones shake their heads and concede the city to the "wets." They hope to cut down the "wet" majorities to such an extent that the rural total will offset the city vote.

TARIFF VOTE NEXT FRIDAY

House Decides to Settle the Question Then.

RULES COMMITTEE WINS OUT

With Plenty of Votes to Spare, Notwithstanding the Desertion of Twenty Republicans, the Resolution to Close the Debate On the Payne Bill And Take a Vote Next Friday Afternoon Was Carried in the House.

Washington, April 6.—Three o'clock p. m., April 6, was the time set by the house for a vote on the Payne tariff bill. The long expected resolution from the committee on rules closing general debate, providing for certain committee amendments and a full and free opportunity to alter the lumber and hides schedules, was adopted with sixteen votes to spare, notwithstanding the desertion of twenty Republicans. Four of the sixteen votes came from the Louisiana delegation who likewise broke away from their party. Previously to the adoption of the resolution there was some severe criticism of it from the Democratic side.

Aside from the interest which attached to this proceeding was the speech of Mr. Clark, of Florida, who denounced Bryan and Bryanism, Populists and Populism and who declared that he would support the Payne bill if it contained what his constituents wanted—a duty on Sea Island cotton and protection for citrus, pineapples, etc. His remarks led him into an exciting colloquy with Mr. Ransdell (Texas) and other Democrats, but he declared that having been instructed by the legislature of his state and his constituents as to the stand he should take on the articles mentioned, he would not violate his solemn obligation to them. His whole attitude was one of defiance to the Democrats of the house.

HALTING IN OPINION

That Ambassadorship Still Haunts President Eliot.

Cambridge, Mass., April 6.—"All newspaper reports purporting emanate from me that I have either accepted or declined the post of ambassador to Great Britain are absolutely unauthorized," said President Charles W. Eliot in an interview.

It was reported here that President Eliot had not yet formally declined the post.

Threw Baby Out of Burning House.

Cincinnati, April 6.—Louis Reik, two years old, was left alone in the kitchen of his home and proceeded to amuse himself with a gasoline can. He poured the fluid on the floor. When the fumes reached the flame on the gasoline stove there was an explosion and the whole kitchen was ablaze.

Mrs. Reik rushed into the kitchen and, seeing Louis, threw him headlong out into the alley. Then the mother crawled up her other child, five months old, and carried it out of danger.

For Woman's Eye.

The Elton collar, of stiffly starched linen worn with the soft silk tie, is a favorite with the tailored shirt waist.

For a service hat nothing is more popular than the natural straw trimmed with black.

Linen and cotton suitings, striped in the herringbone style, are good this season.

The peacock quill, denuded of all but the eye, trims many of the spring hats.

Crochet buttons are in vogue for the suits and gowns of wash materials.

Tassels, balls and fringe trim the new suits and gowns.

Smart Tips For Men

The trousers for riding suits should match the coat in color or be of very fancy material if the coat is dark.

An attractive four-in-hand is being shown which is long and flowing and with a border of Scotch plaid.

Retailers are displaying a tie of moire silk edged with satin in the same color as the ground of the tie.

Reports indicate that bow ties are to be worn more this summer than for some seasons past.

Plaited shirts with colored stripes and having turned-back cuffs are becoming popular.

INDIANA POLITICS

ROBERT G. TUCKER.

Indianapolis, April 6.—Several thousand sample ballots have been distributed by members of the Indianapolis retail liquor dealers' organization who propose to conduct a campaign of education to show their followers how to vote if there should be a county local option election. Alarmed over the possibility of this city being made dry the saloon keepers are showing a disposition to "be good" and live up to the laws. It is said that they have reached an agreement whereby there will be no liquor sold on Sunday or after hours and that the low dives are to be cleaned out as rapidly as possible. The brewers and the saloon men are getting ready to show the people that saloons can be conducted honestly here. By living up to the law they expect to be in position to argue that it would be better to have well regulated saloons than "blind tigers" where liquor would be sold illegally.

The eyes of the temperance forces and the liquor dealers throughout the state are turned towards Cass and Blackford counties which vote today. Both sides are claiming a victory. The anti-saloon party is opposed by strong business men's organizations in Logansport, Hartford City and Montpelier, but Supt. Shumaker, of the anti-saloon league, declares that both counties will be voted "dry."

Governor Marshall is working on a speech he will deliver at the annual banquet of the National Democratic Club, at New York, April 13. He will be one of the principal speakers. He will discuss the tariff question and will appeal strongly for application of the Jeffersonian idea of government.

He says that the government has no inherent right under the constitution to assess a duty on any article brought into this country because it violates the principle which provides that no legislation shall be enacted in favor of one class as against the interests of another.

"I suspect that some of the things I will say in my speech will be coldly received in New York," said the governor today, "but I am going to say them because I believe they are right."

The governor says that the time is coming when the people will get what they demand in the matter of a tariff. The Republicans have failed four times to keep their promise of revision, he declares, and now they are about to make a worse failure than ever. When the tariff is revised, or destroyed, Governor Marshall insists that it will be done by the Democrats.

Governor Marshall is swamped with applications for appointment under the new public accounting law which will take effect when the acts are promulgated. Sixty days are allowed the governor to make the appointments. Great political pressure is being brought to bear by some of the applicants for the position of chief inspector, which pays $4,000 annually, and the two principal deputyships, which pay $3,000 each. The chief clerk of the department will receive $2,000 a year. The governor is not pleased that political influence should be exerted to land these places. He feels that the enactment of the law was due largely to the efforts of the Indianapolis Merchants' association, and that there should be as little politics as possible in carrying out its provisions.

The acts of the legislature of 1909 will be promulgated Saturday by Governor Marshall. Deputy Secretary of State Grubbs says that each county clerk has received his allotment and that all but a dozen of the clerks have received for them. Although the governor has fixed Saturday as the date for the laws to take effect, the constitution provides that the proclamation shall be issued immediately following the notification from all the county clerks that they have received their copies. It may be that all of the clerks will have acknowledged receipt of the acts by tomorrow or next day, in which case the governor may be asked to issue a proclamation without further delay.

HEMENWAY DECLINES JOB

Former Senator From Indiana Will Not Take Chinese Post.

Washington, April 6.—As a sequel of visits which former Senator Hemenway has made recently at the White House and the state department, it was learned that he has been offered the post of United States minister to China. He called on Secretary Knox today and declined the appointment.

This office was held many years by an Indiana man—the late Charles Denby of Evansville. It pays a salary of $17,500 a year.

Although former Vice President Fairbanks is not a candidate for the appointment as United States ambassador at London, and his friends are not pushing his claims, as reported, his name nevertheless is among those that are being considered for that office. Mr. Fairbanks is making no effort to secure the appointment.

INDIANS WENT ON A SPECIAL TRAIN

From Here Today to Attend the District Meeting of Red Men at Columbus.

NORRIS TO ASSIST IN WORK

Large Number of the Local Camp

Attended—Picked up Shelbyville Camp on the Way.

A large number of the local tribe of Red Men attended the district meeting held at Columbus today. The Columbus Republican says of the meeting.

Anywhere from one to two thousand Red Men were expected to capture this city today, and the latch string is hanging out, awaiting their coming. There are more than 1000 members of the order in this county and delegations are coming from all over the district. A special train will bring the Shelbyville and Rushville Indians and a special car will likely be run from Seymour.

The meeting to be held here is a district affair, including the counties of Bartholomew, Johnson, Shelby, Rush, Decatur, Brown, Jennings, Jackson, and Scott. No meeting is ever a success unless the women have something to do with it, so the Degree of Pocahontas has arranged to serve both dinner and supper in the basement of the city hall, Tuesday.

The meeting will be called to order at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. At that time the great council fire will be kindled and the past sachem degree will be conferred on all past sachems of the district. At 2:30 o'clock the council fire of Ingdashagum tribe of this city will be kindled and the secret work of the order will be exemplified by the great officers of the State. This meeting will be for all chief degree members. The great officers who will be here and assist in the work will be George I. Kistner, of Terre Haute, great sachem; Dr. Charles M. Stout, of Middleton, great senior sagamore; Oliver C. Norris, of Rushville, great junior sagamore; C. A. Robinson, of Greenfield, great prophet, and Otto Wolf, of Indianapolis, great chief of records.

After the secret work of the afternoon the council fire will smoulder until the eighth run.

At night there will be a parade, headed by the Columbus band, and will start promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

At 8 o'clock the council fire will be rekindled and an address of welcome will be delivered by Roy W. Emig. The Adoption degree will be conferred by Kiowa Tribe of Shelbyville; the Warriors' degree will be conferred by Ingdashagum Tribe of Columbus, and the Chief's degree will be given by Kokosing Tribe of Taylorsville.

The work in the three degrees will be followed by long talks from the great chiefs and from a number of visiting members.

LOCAL NEWS

The Ananias club held an open air meeting today.

John Holmes of Glenwood is critically ill with Bright's disease.

Mrs. Lon Powell, living northwest of this city is suffering with a gathered hand.

Samuel H. Trabue, Sr., is confined to his home in Mays, threatened with pneumonia.

Miss Jessie Colvin of New Salem is recovering from an attack of typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney White of New Salem spent Sunday with relatives in Connersville.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kentner of New Salem will move to Brownsville the latter part of the week.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly of West First street is suffering with an attack of the grip.

Joseph R. Reider of Connersville, treasurer of the A. I. G. Fields Minstrels, has been made a part owner of the show.

The Ladies Aid Society of the St. Paul's M. E. church will give an Easter bazaar and supper in the K. of P. hall Friday afternoon and evening.

The commissioners of Fayette county at their April meeting yesterday burned $4000 of cancelled bonds, representing the last remnant of the county's debt.

Keep the town growing; keep the streets clean; don't be afraid to have a pretty lawn; plant flowers and patronize your local greenhouse; plant trees for shade or fruit; but whatever you do, push for a better town, a bigger town.

Brookville papers report the existence of the San Jose scale in that place and other parts of Franklin county to an alarming extent, and that the most strenuous measures are being taken by the fruit growers to stamp out this most dreaded enemy of fruit trees.

Happy comedy and lots of it is to be found in the newest comedy-drama—"Uncle Josh Perkins." The play is by Lem B. Parker, whose name is to be found attached to many successful productions that have pleased our theatergoers for the past several seasons.

Jabez Smith will add several old relics to his art gallery in the sheriff's office.

Mrs. Maria Kramer of North Morgan street, who has been ill for several days is in about the same condition today.

Dr. Tevis will deliver a lecture in the Trinity Methodist church in Indianapolis tonight. His lecture is one of the regular lecture course.

The ladies Bible class will meet with Mrs. Lon Link at her home in North Perkins street Friday afternoon. The lesson will be taken from the 8th and 11th chapters of Corinthians.

Greensburg News: John Dille, the monument dealer, has set up a handsome monument for Dr. Bentle of this city at the grave of his wife in the Rushville cemetery. The monument is a testimonial to Mr. Dille's ability as an expert workman and is a fair sample of the excellence of the work turned out at his place of business.

AMUSEMENTS

Large crowds were in attendance at all of the shows at the Grand theater last night. The two subjects, "Summer Homes for the School Children of Paris" and "Tommy's Own Invention, or the Bath Tub Automobile," will be shown again tonight. Miss Iva Brown will sing "If They All Had a Heart Like You."

The bill at the new Palace theater last night attracted large crowds to all of the shows. The dramatic subject, "The Maid and the Millionaire" was especially good. The comic picture, "Jolly Sports" never failed to bring a laugh. The same subjects will be shown tonight and Leon Maxey will sing "In the Shady Lane."

Good crowds attended all the shows at the Vaudet last night. The bill tonight includes the subjects, "Tasha's Son" and "The Treasurer." Both are first class pictures and never fail to please an audience. Miss Clara Gregg will sing a new popular illustrated song.

The Kramer rink will be open for skating Wednesday evening.

"Uncle Josh Perkins" is the title of a play that has scored a success this season unprecedented in recent years. It is to be given here in all its entirety by the original company company which first carried it on to prosperity and popularity. It will be produced here next Friday night, April 9th at the Grand theater, and it is certain to play to a packed house. "Uncle Josh Perkins" is a comedy drama; there is a touch of tragic nature in it that excites to an intense pitch the emotions of the spectators, with all ending happily. The play is livened up by the excellent comedy and when the spectators are not in tears over the misfortune of the beautiful young heroine and the shadows that appear to threaten her future, they are laughing and applauding uproariously at the funny antics of the comedians. Some new and exceedingly clever songs and specialties are introduced at appropriate stages of the play, a vast amount of new and magnificent scenery is used for the impressive stage pictures presented in each of the four acts of the piece.

Stomach Blood and Liver Troubles

Much sickness starts with weak stomach, and consequent poor, impoverished blood. Nervous and pale-people lack good, rich, red blood. Their stomachs need invigorating for, after all, a man can be no stronger than his stomach. A remedy that makes the stomach strong and the liver active, makes rich red blood and overcomes and drives out disease-producing bacteria and cures a whole multitude of diseases.

Get rid of your Stomach Weakness and Liver Laziness by taking a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—the Great Stomach Restorative, Liver Invigorator and Blood Cleanser.

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of known composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, same being attested as correct under oath. CHAPTER IX.

DOUGLAS was turning toward the house when the Widow Willoughby came through the wicker gate to the left of the parsonage, carrying a basket of the social. She was followed by Miss Perkins with a bucket of pickles, which Mandy promptly placed on top of Mrs. Elverson's ice cream. The women explained that they had come to put the finishing touches to the decorations. If anything was needed to increase Mandy's dislike of the widow it was this announcement.

Mrs. Willoughby was greatly worried because her children had not been home since the afternoon school session. Upon hearing that they were with Polly she plainly showed her displeasure, and Douglas dispatched Mandy for them. She saw that her implied distrust of Polly had annoyed him, and she was about to apologize when two of the deacons arrived on the scene, also carrying baskets and parcels for the social.

Strong led the way. He always led the way and always told Elverson what to think. They had been talking for some time, and Strong disapproved of the recent changes which the pastor had made in the church service. He and Douglas had clashed more than once since the baseball argument, and the deacon had realized more and more that he had met a will quite as strong as his own. His failure to bring the parson to his way of thinking was making him irritable and taking his mind from his business.

"Can you beat that?" he would exclaim as he turned away from some disagreement with Douglas, his temper flaring.

Polly was utterly unconscious of the unfriendly glances cast in her direction as she came home from the social.

She nodded gayly to Julia Strong, who was coming through the gate, then hurried to Mrs. Willoughby, begging that the children be allowed to remain a little longer. She was making up a new game, she said, and needed Willie and Jennie for the set.

"My children do not play in promiscuous games," said the widow coldly. "Oh, but this isn't pro-pro-pro!" Polly stammered. "It's a new game. You put two here, and two here and—"

"I don't care to know." The widow turned away and pretended to talk to Julia.

"Oh!" gasped Polly, stunned by the widow's rebuff.

She stood with bowed head in the center of the circle. The blood flew from her cheeks; then she turned to go. Douglas stepped quickly to her side.

"Wait a minute," he said. She paused. All eyes were turned upon them. "Is this a game that grownups can play?"

"Why, yes, of course." "Good! Then I'll make up your set. I need a little amusement just now. Excuse me," he added, turning to the widow's rebuff.

deacons. Then he ran with her out through the trees.

The deacons and the women stared after them. "Well, what do you think of that?" said Mrs. Willoughby as the flying skirts of the girl and the black figure of the man disappeared up the path.

"I think it's scandalous, if you are talking to me," said Miss Perkins. "The idea of a full grown parson running off to play with children's games with a circus rider!"

"She isn't such a child," sneered Julia. "It's enough to make folks talk, put in Mrs. Willoughby, with a sly look at the deacons.

"And me waiting to give him Mrs. Elverson's message!" said Mrs. Elverson. "The church has lost its respectability so long as that girl was sick," snapped Miss Perkins. "But now she's perfectly well and still a-banging on. No wonder folks are talking."

"Who's talking?" thundered Strong. "Didn't you know?" whispered Mrs. Willoughby, not knowing herself nor caring so long as the suspicion grew.

"Know what?" asked the excited deacon. Mrs. Willoughby floundered. "Well, if I was deacon of this church I'd know something about it."

"What is going on?" shrieked the now desperate deacon.

The widow looked at him pitifully, exchanged knowing glances, then she stood with bowed head in the center of the circle. The blood flew from her cheeks; then she turned to go. Douglas stepped quickly to her side.

"Wait a minute," he said. She paused. All eyes were turned upon them. "Is this a game that grownups can play?"

She stood with bowed head in the center of the circle. The blood flew from her cheeks; then she turned to go. Douglas stepped quickly to her side.

"What is going on?" he demanded. The spinster shrugged her shoulders and lifted her eyes heavenward, knowing that nothing could so madden the deacon as this mysterious inference of things too terrible to mention. She was right. Strong uttered a desperate "Bah!" and began pacing up and down the garden with reckless strides.

Mrs. Willoughby watched him with secret delight, and when he came to a halt she wriggled to his side with smirking sweetness.

"What could folks say?" she asked. "A minister and a young circus girl living here like this with no one to—"

She found no words at this point, and Strong, now thoroughly roused, declared that the congregation should have no further cause for gossip and went out quickly in search of Douglas.

When Strong was gone Elverson looked at the set faces of the women and attempted a weak apology for the pastor. "I dare say the young man was very lonely—very—before she came."

"Lonely?" snapped Miss Perkins. "Well, if he was lonely I didn't know it."

The deacon excused himself nervously and went to join Strong.

The women gathered up their bunnings and retired with bland smiles to the Sunday school room, feeling that they had accomplished enough for the time being.

Strong and Elverson crossed the yard, still in search of the pastor. They turned at the sound of fluttering leaves and beheld Douglas, hatless, tearing down the path. Strong called to him, but Douglas darted quickly behind the hedge. The deacons looked at one another in speechless astonishment.

Presently the silence was broken by the distant voice of Polly counting from one to a hundred. The secret was out! The pastor, a leader of the church, was playing hide-and-seek!

"Mr. Douglas!" shouted Strong when his breath had returned.

"Hush, hush!" whispered Douglas, looking over the hedge. He peeped cautiously about him, then came toward the men with a sigh of relief.

"It's all right," she has gone the other way."

"I'll be a good thing for you if she never comes back," said Strong, and Douglas' quick ear caught an unpleasant meaning in his tone.

"What's that?" the pastor asked in a low, steady voice.

"We don't like some of the things that are going on here, and I want to talk to you about 'em."

"Very well, but see if you can't talk in a lower key."

"Never mind about the key!" shouted Strong angrily.

"But I do mind." Something in his eyes made the deacon lower his voice.

"That girl is going to stay here." "Indeed! And why?" The color was leaving Douglas' face and his jaw was becoming very square.

"Because she's been here long enough."

"I don't agree with you there."

"Well, it don't make no difference whether you do or not. She's got to go."

"Good-bye, Douglas."

"Yes, sir-bob. We've made up our minds to that."

"And who do you mean by 'we'?"

"The members of this church," replied Strong impatiently.

"Am I to understand that you are speaking for the church?"

"That's just what I mean," said Strong. "He was beginning to be perplexed."

"Yes, and as deacon of this church," said the deacon of this church who told the congregation for me that that is my affair."

WHEEZER OR SNEEZER?

Have You Heard of Hyomei for Catarrh, Asthma and Hay Fever

If you wheeze or sneeze, hawk or spit, snuffle or blow, something is the matter with the membrane of your respiratory tract, and you need Hyomei.

And you need Hyomei because it will cure you of any catarrhal or inflammatory condition that exists.

It isn't a stomach medicine, or spray, or douche, but a very pleasant healing, antiseptic balsam, from the eucalyptus forests of Australia.

You breathe this balsamic air through a small, hard rubber inhaler, and it reaches every nook, corner and crevice of the membrane, and promptly kills the catarrhal germs.

F. B. Johnson & Co. will sell you a complete Hyomei (pronounced High-o-mei) outfit for $1.00, or the money-back plan.

The use of Hyomei cured Mr. Cutler of catarrh in 1904. He has strongly endorsed the use of Hyomei in many instances, and we are glad to go on record regarding this marvelous catarrh cure, and endorsing its use.

"Mrs. A. Cutler, 201 Post Ave., Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 12, 1908:

"Your affair," shouted Strong, "when that girl is eating the church's bread!"

"It makes no difference whether we believe it or not. We're going to do our duty by the church, and that girl must leave or—"

"Or I must," Douglas pleaded out Strong's phrase for himself. "That threat doesn't frighten me at all, deacon. After what you have said I should refuse to remain in this church," the deacon stepped forward eagerly—"were it not that I realize more than ever before how much you need me, how much you ignorant, narrow minded creatures need to be taught the meaning of true Christianity."

The deacon was plainly disappointed.

"Is it possible?" gasped Elverson weakly.

"Well, what are you going to do about it?" asked Strong when he could trust himself to speak again.

"I shall do what is best for Mrs. Polly," said the pastor quietly, but firmly.

He turned away to show that the interview was at an end. Strong followed him. Douglas pointed to the gate with a meaning not to be mistaken. "Good afternoon, deacon."

Strong hesitated. He looked at the pastor, then at the gate, then at the pastor again. "I'll go," he shouted, "but it ain't the end!" He slammed the gate behind him.

Quite so, quite so, chimed Elverson, not having the slightest idea of what he was saying. He saw the frigid expression on the pastor's face; he coughed behind his hat and followed Strong.

HOME CURE FOR ECZEMA

Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, Glycerine, Etc., Used as a Sample Wash.

It really seems strange that so many people suffer year after year with eczema, when it is now no longer a secret. A little of wintergreen mixed with thymol, glycerine, etc., makes a wash that is bound to cure.

Old, chronic cases, it is true, cannot be cured in a few days, but there is absolutely no sufferer from eczema who ever used this simple wash and did not find immediately that wonderfully soothing, calm, cool sensation that comes when the itch is taken away. Instantly upon applying a few drops of the wash the remedy takes effect, the itch is allayed. There is no need of experiment—the patient knows at once.

Instead of trying to compound the oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., in the right proportions ourselves we are using a prescription which is universally found the most effective. It is known as the D. D. D. Prescription, or Oil of Wintergreen Compound. It is made by the D. D. D. Co., of Chicago, and our long experience with this remedy has given us great confidence in its merits.

Weston's Long Hike

Pedestrian Achievements of Veteran Walking Wonder Who at Seventy-one Is Tramping From New York to San Francisco to Benefit Mankind—Expects to Finish in a Hundred Days and Wants People to Walk Themselves Into Health and Happiness.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

WHAT do you think of a man seventy-one years old walking from New York to San Francisco? To make such a trip by train would be considered a task by most men of that age. Yet on his seventy-first birthday, which occurred March 15, Edward Payson Weston started from the New York city hall with the avowed intention of tramping it through to the golden west. Moreover, he scheduled enough side trips to carry the total distance up to 4,500 miles. More wonderful still, he promised to do the whole thing in 100 days and rest Sundays. Does it sound like one of the ancient and honorable order of fairy tales? Well, it would sound like that if it were pushed through the headgear of anybody but Weston. If any other walkologist or talkologist should present a proposition like that we would even call it by a shorter and uglier name. But Weston has a habit of making good. He is the man that at the age of sixty-nine walked from Portland, Me., to Chicago in less than twenty-four days. He also tramped from Philadelphia to New York, approximately 100 miles, in less than twenty-four hours. On both journeys he beat his own record of forty years before. When our beloved grandfathers were on earth he was doing the heel and toe act and was known as "Weston the Walkist."

will be the first authenticated, measured and verified one on record. Some people claim to have walked from ocean to ocean, but there has been no way to prove their assertion, nor have they pretended to make time records. Weston will be accompanied by physicians, reporters and others, who will keep a scientific tab on his time and condition. An automobile will carry food supplies for the pedestrian, also change of clothing, but no camping outfit, as he will depend on finding houses at which he may stop, even in crossing the Nevada desert. The aged walker has been known to wear out successive relays of horses in his rapid cross country hikes, and if he does not put an automobile out of commission the fame of that particular machine will be established.

A Zigzag Route.

Weston's route as tentatively mapped out will be roughly as follows: From New York to Albany; thence to Buffalo; southward to Pittsburg; then northward through Ohio and westward to Chicago; again southward to St. Louis; from the Missouri metropolis to Kansas City; next to Denver; northward to Cheyenne; over the mountains to Ogden and Salt Lake; then a straight drive through the desert and over the western range to Los Angeles, and the final leg of the journey will be along the coast road to San Bennett doubled his salary on the spot. The young man's feet enabled him to make several beats on the news while he worked on the Herald and other New York papers.

Walked to Lincoln's Inauguration.

Early in 1861 Weston was in Boston, and it was from there that he started on his first famous walk. This was a trip to Washington to witness the first inauguration of Abraham Lincoln. Leaving Boston on Feb. 22, Weston reached the capital city on March 3, having covered 453 miles in 208 hours. That Washington tramp was the turning point in his career and made him "Weston the Walkist." In 1867 Weston's legs brought him into national fame. They carried him from Portland, Me., his birthplace, to Chicago in less than thirty days, or less than twenty-six walking days. He was an object of curiosity and applause all along the way and when he reached Chicago was given an ovation that was probably never equaled by a president of the United States and was never surpassed unless it was by a prizefighter. He was escorted into the city by the police, with bands playing and flags flying. The streets were thick with people, who were in trees and on roofs in the good old American way. Weston's wife and child awaited him at the Sherman House. After he had joined them he went to the balcony of the hotel, where a crowd extending for blocks called loudly for a speech. Weston was too overcome to talk and could only hold aloft the little girl and say in husky accents that now she could have a pony. He delivered several addresses in Chicago, telling of his trip.

In 1907, forty years later, Mr. Weston again walked from Portland to Chicago, covering the same route as before. This journey was given even wider publicity than the first. Though walking is not now so much in vogue as in the good old days, the veteran pedestrian's advanced age and the romantic parallel of the two journeys nearly a half century apart caught the popular imagination, so that his progress was a continued ovation. Many who had run after him as boys during his first trip were now old men, who joined him and trudged by his side as long as they could keep the pace. When he reached Chicago the scenes of his former triumph were re-enacted, although there was no young wife and no little girl to welcome him at the end of his long tramp. On this trip, as already mentioned, Weston cut his former record more than twenty-four hours.

After the 1867 tramp Weston made several other records in America, one of which was 115 miles in twenty-four hours. This was on a regular track in New York city, a style of travel for which he never cared, preferring the uneven roads of the country and the open air. His is an out of door gospel. He also walked all over the map on scheduled trips, delivering temperance lectures en route. It is still his custom to give temperance talks on Sunday. Largely through Weston's example a walking mania sprang up in the country. He walked in several matches, his most famous competitor being Daniel O'Leary, who sometimes beat him for short distances, but lacked the staying qualities of Weston. The bicycle had not then come into vogue, while the automobile was far in the future. It was the golden age of pedestrianism, the most healthful of sports.

Took the Astley Belt.

From America Mr. Weston went to England, where he exceeded his triumphs at home. Perhaps his greatest feat was in walking 5,000 miles in 100 days, an accomplishment that for actual distance covered exceeded the cross continent tramp on which he is now engaged. In 1870 he won the famous Astley belt in London by walking 350 miles in 141 hours and 44 minutes, beating two Englishmen and one other competitor over 100 miles.

When walking matches became commercialized, and so discredited, Weston went into business, and little more was heard of him as a pedestrian until recent years. Through all this time, however, he continued walking a little every day for his health and pleasure. And with him "a little" would mean a killing tramp to other men. His casual stroll was a matter of twenty miles. It was his constant habit to walk from uptown New York to Wall street each morning, a distance of eight or ten miles. Thus he kept in training. His later public exhibits were taken up with the idea that in this age of automobiles, railroads and trolleys the American people are forgetting how to walk, and if the tendency is not checked one of the most healthful and delightful sports will be lost to them. He walks, therefore, for the good of mankind.

In appearance Weston is a wiry little man, five feet eight inches in height and weighing about 140 pounds. He eats two meals a day, a light breakfast and hearty dinner. He does not use tobacco or liquor in any form and is temperate in all things. He does not believe in special training, but keeps always in condition. His great secret is the power of will, of mind over body. He carries a light stick, walks with a measured, springy step, with shoulders well back and breathing deep. He maintains the same pace throughout, his legs working like pistons. He sleeps little, whether on a tramp or at ordinary times, claiming that too long sleep makes him heavy and lethargic.

Edward Payson Weston is a living example of what open air, temperance, exercise and healthy mindedness will do for the human race. His example is worth a hundred sermons. He is an embodied disproof of the Osler theory.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head of these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics. Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day. Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 5c boxes for the pocket, also in 25c boxes of 48 Preventics. Insist on your druggists giving you

HONOR FOR AMERICAN FARMER

Czar of Russia Seeks Services of Indiana Corn King.

Leonard B. Clore of Franklin, Ind., has been asked by the Russian government to come to that country for three years and instruct Russian farmers in the methods of raising American corn. Mr. Clore, it is said, will receive $4,000 a year and all expenses. Mr. Clore long has been recognized as king among the corn raisers. He received highest awards at the Paris, Buffalo, Chicago and St. Louis world's fairs, and at the Omaha corn show last December he won the grand sweepstakes, giving him the $1,000 trophy of the American Corn Growers' association.

At the national corn show, held in the Coliseum at Chicago in October, 1907, Mr. Clore was the exhibitor of the single ear of corn which brought the world's record price of $250 when put up for auction. The prizes which have been won by Mr. Clore have reached a total of $8,000. All of the corn which figured in these contests was raised on a tract of land which contains only thirteen acres. The entire farm on which Mr. Clore works consists of but 126 acres.

ANTI-AFFINITY LEAGUE.

Members Pledged to Make Reports on Conduct of Married People.

Mrs. Anna Kettel, a storekeeper in Detroit, Mich., has organized an anti-affinity league. The constitution and bylaws, drawn by a lawyer, state the purposes of the society as follows:

"It shall be the duty of the officers and members of this league to exercise watchfulness over the conduct of other members and to report promptly to the league any conduct unbecoming a dutiful wife. Such conduct shall result in expulsion from the league and any other mark of disapproval which may be decided upon."

It is also provided that the members shall keep a watchful eye on women not in the association and look out for men who seem in danger of going astray.

Up to a recent date no man had attempted to join the new association, though men are eligible.

A Prophecy.

If they keep on putting the suffragettes in jail over there in London much longer it is dollars to doughnuts that the homely ballads of other days will soon be superseded by some such pathetic lyrical outburst as this:

Oh, where is my wandering man tonight?
Oh, where can my mother be?
She hid her forth to the suffrage fight
And hasn't come home to tea.
The range is cold on the kitchen trail,
The cupboard is bleak and bare,
For mother has gone to the county jail
For pulling the speaker's hair.
Oh, where is my wandering man tonight?
My mother, oh, where is she?
She dwells in the "box."
While father's socks
Are holey as they can be!

TELEPHONE. 1111.

EDWARD PAYSON WESTON AS HE STARTED ON HIS WALK IN 1867 FROM PORTLAND, ME., TO CHICAGO AND AS HE FINISHED HIS 1907 WALK OVER THE SAME ROUTE—FIRE CHIEF JAMES MORAN ESCORTING HIM INTO CHICAGO.

All told, he has trudged about 65,000 miles, or nearly three times around the earth—more than three times, in fact, in the temperate zone. When that sort of chap says he is going from New York to San Francisco we simply have to take him at his word and would do so even if he were a hundred. And, by the way, Weston says he will keep on till he reaches the century mark.

Walks Into Health.

The beauty of all this is that Mr. Weston does it not for money or glory, but for an idea. He believes that people ought to walk more. If his methods are a trifle spectacular it is only that he may thus fix the thought in the popular consciousness. He would have people walk themselves into health and happiness. Can it be done? Well, there is Weston. He did it. He is healthy and happy at an age when most men are "all in" or next thing to it; he has the rosy cheeks and the fire of youth. Walking did it. No theory about that. He has the goods. He is perhaps the first man in the world's history that ever preached a gospel with his feet. But it is a perfectly good gospel—better, in fact, than many men preach with their mouths. And Weston does not preach alone with his feet. He talks for his idea. He also talks temperance—and lives it.

On the same day that Weston started his stroll across the continent the extra session of congress met to wrestle with the tariff. Here is betting that he trudges into San Francisco before the two houses get their new law into the hands of the president. This is a race worth watching—on the one hand a seventy-one year old pedestrian tramping through sun and rain, through wind and dust, over hill and down valley, and on the other a more than seventy-one year old tariff pursuing an even rockier road.
